The work of replacing the steel stringers of the viaduct at the east end of the Merchants' bridge is being rapidly completed. A large gang of men are working night and day to repair the damage wrought by the floods last June.

When the backwater came rushing through the viaduct it was not long before the supports gave way. Contrary to the expectation of the crowds that had taken refuse on the embankment, the heavy mass did not fall, but hung to the rails, which held it up at each end.

The railway officials cut down the supporting in the viaduct of the supporting in the viaduct is still in a steel is still in a first the flood.

The massilion Bridge Company, which has the contract of rebuilding the viaduct, has found it necessary to install a pump to get rid of the pond. Dams were made to keep other pools in the vicinity from draining into the one they are working. Immediately after the wreck a temporary span was built by sinking piles into the ground. This span was completed two days after the flood.

The man is described as about 25 years old, and 5 feet 11 inches tall. He weighed and he wore a white hat. Voelker says he would not be able to identify the man.

BOYS HAT BURIED STOLEN TREASURE.

North Side Youths Imitated Captain Kidd and Were Caught by the Police.

PLUNDER IN A VACANT LOT.

With Pick and Shovel Patrelmen Unearthed Fixtures Which Were Taken From an Unoccupied House.

Imbued with the spirit of Captain Kidd, of whose adventures they had been reading, four North Side boys stripped an unoccupied house of its fittings and buried 1810 Biddle street, where it was dug up

The boys were arrested by Patrolman James Hasson, and are locked up at the Fourth District Station, They are Burt Sivley, 13 years old, living at No. 1815 Franklin avenue; Matthew Clark, 12 years old, of No. 1117 North Elighteenth street; Alfred Williams, 12 years old, of No. 1816 Franklin avenue, and George Delonjay, living at No. 1100 O'Fallon street.

While they admitted to the police that they stole the fixtures, the boys did not seem to realize that they had violated the They were greatly elated over the fac-

Cinef Kiely was notified by George P.
Lang of No. 172 Wash street, yesterday morning that the house next to him had been entered and stripped of its fixtures.

Investigation showed that Charles A. Young of No. 167 North Twenty-first street had discovered the boys in the house. He captured Sivley.

Patrolman Hasson arrested the boy and from him learned the names of his companions. When asked where the booty was the boy replied that it was buried, and he took the patrolman to the spot.

TREASURE UNEARTHED

TREASURE UNBARTHED. A pick and shovel were procured and th patrolman doffed his coat and began to dig for the hidden plunder. After a few moments' work the pick struck something hard and electric bells with larse quantities of metal were unearthed.

After taking the property to the police station, Patrolman Hason started to capture the other boys. He had them all in custody and was taking them to the station when one of the boys started to run. The patrolman gave chase, and while he was running slipped and fell to the patrolment, but finally recaptured the youth.

At the station the boys seemed to think their arrest was a lark. They freely admitted entering the house, and said that they intended to sell the fixtures they had burled after a few days.

RALPH W. LANGLEY QUALIFIES.

Old Resident Clause Does Not Apply to Chemist's Employe.

Ralph W. Langiey qualified before City Register FitzGibbon yesterday for his position as an assistant in the office of City Chemist Bernays. The fact that he has Chemist Bernays. The fact that he has only been a resident in the city for about a week led some to believe that he could not legally assume his duties.

The law says that an officer of the city government, either elective or appointive, shall be a resident of the city for two years prior to his taking office. Langley was appointed in accordance with section 3 of ordinace No. 2008, as one of the additional five employes which the City Chemist has the power to appoint. This relieves Langley from filling the qualifications of an officer.

Chief Collenberger was formerly one of Chief Collenberger was formerly one of the most famous gun shots in the country. He has been retired for several years, but during his days at the traps he defeated some of the best-known shots in America. His most notable victory in the vicinity of St. Louis was his defeat of James Haggerty on November 19, 1892, for 550 a side. Col-lenberger also defeated the late A. K. Flor-ioa of St. Louis in an equally famous match. He also participated in many of the American tournaments.

The parties to the suit were Michael Fas-ler and Frank Koestler. Both were con-victed in 1890 in the Jersey County Circuit Court on the charge of stealing chickens. Elsier served a term in the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Chester, and Koestler served a term in the Illinois State Reformatory at Pontiac. Both men were paroled, and the paroles of both have expired. The statute of limitation also has expired on the charge.

to die among her relatives. The death occurred yesterday, and the funeral will be held to-day. The burial will be in the French Village Cemetery.

Mrs. Gaibreath belonged to the Woods family, one of the best-known families in Centreville Station. St. Clair County. Twenty years ago, or when she was 16 years old, she married William Gaibreath, and the couple went out to Wyoming to live and make their fortunes. They did well and lived happily.

Correspondence was kept up between Mrs. Gaibreath and her relatives, and when, a few weeks ago, it was stated by the doctors that an operation would be necessary to save her life she made her husband promise that if she were given up he would take her back home to die. A week ago the physicians said that she could live but a few days, and Mr. Gaibreath brought his wife back to the East Side to the home of her half-sister, Miss Mary Brady, of East St. Louis, where she died. Some time ago Mayor Wells sent several unmarked samples to Snodgrass for his opinion. Among the samples were some of the importeo carbolic acid being used by the sanitary division.

Mr. Snodgrass subjected all the samples to a severe test and chose the acid as the best. Some of the samples he pronounced useless.

"Based upon these experiments," Mr. Snodgrass says in his report, "I recommend out of these products only the car-bolic acid. We must not deceive ourselves bolic acid. We must not deceive ourselves by thinking that a product which may have a very seductive odor will be satisfactory as a disinfectant. Deodorants and antiseptics are not disinfectants."

A sharp rivalry exists among dealers in this class of goods for the city's trade, and every dealer with a flerce-smelling article has lauded it to the skies as a disinfectant. It is said that in some cases there has been an attempt to get the Health Department to designate a brand.

A representative of an oil firm called on Assistant Health Commissioner Francis yesterday and complained because the city was not buying any more of her firm's product. The specifications now necessitate the oil being up to the standard of that used by the Water Department. The trouble with the disinfectant and the oils used by the city extends to the alcohol and kindred supplies.

DON'T GET IN A SWEAT

Perspiration-"sweat" is what the Bible and we common people call it-is a way nature has of driving out of the body refuse that has no business there. We sweat more in summer, because, in the overheated bowels, undigested food ferments more quickly than in winter and produces irritating acids and gases. The bowels, overworked, try to relieve themselves by violent convulsions, causing terrible gripes and colics, and diarrhoeal discharges so acid as to make you sore, and leaving the intestines weak and worn out.

Nature assists body-cleaning by sending the filth out through the pores of the skin. It is not safe to stop perspiring altogether but most of the impure matter should be sent out by natural movements of the bowels, and offensive, ill-smelling, linen-staining sweat done away with. sweat done away with.
